My Jungle Log 'Box-It-Up' Plan

Ed's Jungle Log	My Jungle Log – the Sugar Crush Jungle
Introduction: State when the exploring happened, sum up the day & tell reader how you felt, e.g. Today has been amazing. I was so ... What you did before you set off, e.g. I put on my ...	• today has been an unbelievable day of adventure • woke up before sunrise • I couldn't wait to taste the sweet delights • packed my rucksack and put on my heatproof gloves • made sure I had plenty of pots with lids to collect the famous chocolate lava
Paragraph 1: Event 1 – what happened? First, ... Event 2 – what happened? Next, ...	• First, I trudged through the churning, chocolate river • collected samples of the sweets which lined the river • my favourite was the edible turquoise grass • Next, I saw gummy bears swimming down the river • one pair of bears were doing synchronised summersaults • Excitedly, I recorded their performance to show my explorer friends
Paragraph 2: Event 3 – what happened? After a short break, ... Event 4 – what happened next? Following that, ...	• After a short coffee break, I trekked to the top of the chocolate volcano • measured the temperature of the chocolate lava flowing down the sides of the volcano • It reminded me of a factory in a famous children's story • Following that, I made my way back down making sure to avoid the crispy chocolate boulders • When I got to the bottom, I had a quick rest on a giant sprinkle-topped donut and watched the candyfloss clouds in the sky
Conclusion: Round off your report and tell the reader what you did at the end of the day. Finally, ... When I got back ...	• Finally, I made my way back to the wardrobe because the volcano was beginning to rumble • The eruptions can be huge and I was worried I might get covered in chocolate lava • When I got to my tent, I unpacked my rucksack and stored my sweet samples safely.
