Dear Sir,

Thank you for the amazing day you provided a few weeks ago. It was both a highly educational and strongly enjoyable experience.

The most pleasurable activity was the 'moss activity' where you described the positive effects of moss against flooding and fire-damage to the moorlands. I liked this activity because the water flowing down the gutters seemed a fair amount like a competitive race. I also particularly enjoyed the relay race in the morning simply because it involved running around which I completely enjoy.

I and probably a big chunk of my classmates enjoyed discovering the true effects of climate-change on our environment: such a sudden lack of camouflage for white animals including the mountain hare and rapid habitat loss for many animals like the curlew bird.

As of returning home I am doing my very best to turn lights off as I exit or enter. In addition, I shall pursue any other ideas that reach my mind.

Thank you extremely for that awesomely amazing day of fun and learning; I'm sure other schools will appreciate it.

Yours faithfully,

Reuben
