

Jack and the Beanstalk

Character Description through Dialogue

The story shows Jack and his mother were very poor

when Jack said to the old man,

"I am going to sell our old cow at market because we have no money left to buy food."

Jack showed he was very friendly

when he spoke to the old man on the way to the market. He replied,

"Good morning to you too."

Jack showed he was

quick-thinking

when he shouted,

"Mother, Mother, quick bring the axe!"

so that he could chop down the beanstalk and stop the giant.

Jack showed he was

cheeky

when he climbed the beanstalk, knocked on the castle door and asked,

"Good morning, please could I have some breakfast?"

The story shows that Jack was greedy

because he went back to the giant's castle to steal the golden hen.

He boasted,

"I have a hen that lays golden eggs! Now we will be rich!"

The story shows

Jack was scared

when he hid from the giant and whispered to himself,

"I hope he doesn't find me."
