PIGEON LAUNCHES MISSILE

The city of Washington D.C. was shaken to bits yesterday because of a pigeon and his obsession with bagels. This led to a missile being fired in to the air with an identified object flying next to it.

A missile was launched into the atmosphere yesterday. Scientists believe it was heading to the capital of Russia, Moscow. The rocket blew up leaving ash cloud covering half of Washington. An unknown object was flying next to it with a human hanging on.

An unknown man in a pressed black suit and a pigeon had a disagreement yesterday causing chaos within the streets of Washington DC. People screaming, lasers firing, cars blowing up. The cause of these explosions was that the pigeon flew into the suitcase. But this was no ordinary suitcase, this suitcase had lasers, missiles and booster rockets. It is thought the suitcase also launched the missile that was heading to Moscow, Russia.

Walter Becett stated "I'm so sorry for what happened I will help clean up but I never want to see that pigeon's stupid demented face again."

The President exclaimed, "Sorry that you are going to war but we have made new titanium tanks and lazer bazookas so you can defeat the Russians. I am going to give the medal of honour to the pigeon for launching the missile at our enemy.

A team of EVI agents are looking in to what happened any. Any notes will be sent to the police. The Russians may want to start war with the Americans but most people they are trying to stop that.
