

Peter's adventure through France.

Peter looked around his surroundings of Northern France and was shocked at what he saw. In front of him like the Eiffel tower stood tall and proud. There were so many trees rustling because the cold air surrounded Peter. Peter put on his jacket that was so warm because it was misty, chilly and the owls were hooting. After that, Peter saw a lot of Tourists coming off the buses.

LANDMARKS

As Peter was staring up at the Eiffel Tower in amazement but he didn't realise that his tyre got punctured. The Eiffel Tower is one of the landmarks most people can easily link to France. The metal construction stands in the city centre of Paris built in 1889. Suddenly, Peter tried to move his bike, but the wheel was punctured. Peter became frustrated as he tried to get on a bus. However, because he had his bike the bus driver didn't let on! "oh no" Peter grumbled as he looked around for a taxi. Sadly, he couldn't see one. Peter began walking home despite the sudden rain that began pelting down.

As he began to walk home, he notices The Louvre museum. The Louvre museum is the largest museum in the world and houses over 35,000 works of art and the Mona Lisa.

GEOGRAPHY

Whilst Peter was lifting his heavy bike at the same time, he spotted the French Alps which cover the Mediterranean Sea and the Rhine river. Also home to the Mont blanc peak which is the tallest mountain in the western Europe at 15,750ft. As he could hear the rain heavily pelting down on The Loire river, which is the longest river standing at 1,012km. After a while Peter realized that he was getting drenched in the rain. Sighing, he picked up his bike and carried on walking. After 10 minutes he heard the gushing of a river which was the Rhine river. Which is at the Franco German border.

Peter realized that he was very far away from home. In the distance, Peter spotted a ship.

“Little boy, what are you doing here? you should be at home” asked the sailor surprised.

“Sir, can you help me find my way back home? I’m lost” Peter replied!

“Come on, then” the sailor said as Peter climbed onto the ship.

Peter heard the waves crashing and he asked the sailor “What river is this?”

The sailor replied “This is the Rhone river” It comes through Switzerland through the lake of Geneva. Then the Seine crossing Paris and the Garonne in the south-west.

EDUCATION

Peter hopped off the ship and waved bye to the sailor. He began to run home as he realized he was late for his schoolwork! Peter had been going to school since he was 3 years old and he went to a private school this is because 85% of schools were private. Education is almost free. (zero from kinder garden to high school) Tuition is $400. 26% of university students receive scholarships.
