

It was a great summer day in France and Hayley and her mother where on there way to the shops to gets some clothes for Hayley. After a while , They went into there car and drove home surprisingly , When they got home the moon came out . The next day , They went shopping at the supermarket to get croissants at the best place in France La Pain Pichard , Later on they went back home when Hayley went to her room everything was gone. Hayley she shouted to her mother “ MUM where is everything in my room” But she did not respond then Hayley went into her mothers room and everything was gone too after that , she went into the kitchen where her mum was and she made Hayley croissants the croissants that they bought at La Maison Pichard “ Hello mum I’ve got something to tell you that everything in the house is gone even my favourite t – shirt that said France and I loved it what should we do ? ” Hayley’s mother said “I was going to tell you this when we were coming back from the shops that we are moving houses but we are not moving today ”. Hayley said sadly “ wen did do you pack my stuff up ? ” Hayley’s mother exclaimed “ I had your auntie come and pack up our stuff up then but we still have the attic to clean up and I’ve got something else to tell you we are in 2 weeks’ time so we have a lot of time to pack stuff and for you adjust about moving houses ok” so then Hayley went into her room and was adjusting that fact that they are moving and she went down stairs to her mother and said “ I know what I want to do”. “ what do you want ? ” said Hayley’s mother , “ I want to move houses” Hayley said happily . Hayley’s mother exclaimed “ ok yay we are moving ”.

the end .