

The Great Kapok Tree

Two men walked into the rainforest. The larger man ordered the smaller man to cut down the great Kapok tree using the axe he was carrying.

Chopping the tree was hot and tiring so the man lay down to rest. While the man was sleeping, a boa constrictor hissed in his ear warning him not to chop down his home.

		Instead of cutting the tree down and destroying the animals home, the man left the rainforest.