Accessing the Secure Area of the School Website

Dear Parents and Carers,

Accessing the Secure Area of the School Website

We are pleased to introduce the secure area of the school website, which provides parents and carers with direct access to school class blog pages that are intended for our school community. We are still working with Juniper to facilitate full functionality (image blocks created by teachers are not visible to parents currently), but as many features are now visible, we are keen to share the children's learning through the Class Blog pages whilst the final snags are rectified.

To access the secure area, please visit the school website and select the relevant Login to the website directly option. You will be asked to enter an email address and password.

email: parent@walkley.sheffield.sch.uk

password: Classblog26

The login details are shared account details rather than individual accounts. These details have been shared with the contact email addresses we hold for parents and carers on the school's MIS (Management Information System).

Once logged in, you will have direct access to the secure pages of the website.

Keeping the Login Details Secure

Please help us to keep the information within the secure area protected by not sharing the login details outside of our school community.

From time to time, the password may need to be changed for security reasons. If the password is changed for any reason, contacts held on the school's MIS system will be notified by email of the new password.

We hope that this secure area will provide a useful and convenient way for parents and carers to access information specifically for our school community and support conversations about learning happening in school.

Thank you for your continued support.

Yours sincerely

Mr Wallis
